BOVRIL ISN'T DEAR.
In fact, value for value, it is one of the cheapest drinks and one of the most economical foods that can be obtained.
A cup of hot Bovril costs less than a drink
of whisky, and while giving a more genuine and lasting warmth than the latter,
contains, in addition, the nutritive principles of beef worth many times its cost.
Old fashioned beef teas and meat extracts, whether known as such, or disguised
under more pretentious modern names,
contain none of the NUTRITIVE properties of beef. Baron Liebig himself admitted this fact; there is not a doctor to day disputes it. Used as a nourishment, Meat Extract is probably the most expensive article one can buy. Bovril one of the cheapest.

BAD COMPLEXIONS

Dry Thin and Falling Hair and Red Rough Hands Prevented by

CUTICURA SOAP.

MILLIONS use CUTICURA Soap exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and for stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for removing eruptions, inflammations, and chafings, or too free or excessive perspiration, in the form of washes, for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially to mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA Soap combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in One Soap at One Price, the best skin and complexion soap, the best toilet and best baby soap in the world.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Mump, Scab, or other skin disease. CUTICURA Soap is used for the face, neck, and hands, and is especially recommended for the delicate skin of women. It is sold in small tins, and is available at all chemists and druggists.

SILVER COINAGE.

The exceptionally low price of silver in the present year has made the difference between the bullion value and the token value of the English silver coinage greater than ever, so that now, according to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the silver in a shilling is worth only fourpence half-penny. The profit resulting to the Government must be very considerable despite the cost of coinage, and it is a perfectly legitimate profit, as much so as that which accrues to the Issue Department of the Bank of England from part of its note issue. The profit accrues not only from silver current in the United Kingdom, but also from that in many of the Colonies, though the Home Government takes upon itself if not only the expense of coinage but also that of sending the coin to the Colonial treasuries. Although in Great Britain silver is legal tender to the amount of forty shillings only, in certain Colonies there is no such limit, a fact which the absence of gold coinage in such Colonies would make excessively inconvenient were it not for locally issued notes, such as those of the Colonial Bank in the West-Indian Islands. The only danger of the low proportion of real to nominal value in the silver coinage is that of the false coining of currency made of real silver. For some time past this has been done to some extent, but to an alarming extent; but every depreciation of silver increases the risk of such frauds and other countries have had to suffer from them, especially the Dutch East Indies, where ten years ago it was estimated that there were an enormous number of false guineas made of real silver in circulation that had been manufactured in China. One possible remedy would be to increase the size and consequently the real value of the silver coins, but to make such a measure effective, it would be necessary to call in the silver coins now in circulation, an almost impossible task, and great expense would be involved, whilst the effect would be to make the coins of greater value than the shilling of an inconveniently large size. The increasing use of silver for purposes for which the great bulk of people were accustomed to be satisfied with, plated articles is likely to check any such greater fall, and considering its electrical conductivity which is considerably greater than that of copper, it is surprising that it has not already found more employment in certain of the more delicate classes of electrical apparatus.

The Home Government is able each year to absorb the entire profit resulting from silver coinage, for being merely of a token nature Government incurs no possible contingent liability in connection with it; but the rupee coinage of India stands in a different position, and the Government of India does wisely in using it to create a gold reserve fund, though the likelihood of its ever being called upon is practically nil. The gradual depreciation of bullion value silver coins has been one of the many advances made in the course of the last century, and those who have had to do with the Mexican dollar, or its equivalent, the pirata or Hongkong dollar, appreciate the resulting advantages in everyday commercial transactions. The rate is high enough, but these bulky coins are indefinite, by weight, and even if the fluctuations in value did not exist there would be every argument of inconvenience to be urged against them as is true also of the American silver dollar, though its nominal value is much greater. As subsidiary coinage issued with proper attention to the bulk of the coins, it is impossible advantageously to place silver by any other metal, and it is more likely to disappear from circulation; but the sooner all countries civilize themselves out of the issue of any coin larger than the shilling the better. In this one point India at least shows them the way, for notwithstanding her enormous silver circulation she gets on perfectly well without any silver coin larger than the rupee, and consequently none of greater value than sixteenpence, though on the other hand her people have not yet got out of the habit of using the cumbersome machinery of silver coins for even comparatively large payments. —European Gazette.
